THE POLICE SITUATION

Mayor Welsh has admitted that the police force of the city is inadequate to afford proper protection. He has admitted that it has been given a severe arraignment by government officers for its alleged inability to cope with a situation which arose at the time soldiers from Camp Grant made this city a drinking mecca.

But while making these admissions he has not taken any action to change conditions. If he knew that a situation which is detrimental to the interests of the public existed, he should, as mayor of Janesville have taken immediate steps to correct it. He has put the matter up to the police and fire commission. But he has the power to make an investigation of charges as well as take steps to change any situation which prevents his carrying out his obligations to the citizens.

There seems to be an inclination to "pass the buck" as far as the police board, mayor and council is concerned. Mayor Welsh has declared that the police board will meet and adjust matters and hints that a reorganization is to take place. That's encouraging and what the citizens want. But they want to go a step further. They insist that the charges which have been flying thick and fast be either proved or disproved. They are not going to be satisfied to have the whole thing whitewashed.

The five policemen who quit the force last Saturday after they had demanded the resignation of John E. Kennedy, police commissioner, whom they charge with having made slanderous remarks about them in public places, should make their charges in writing and file them with the police board. It is not only their right as citizens and former members of the police force, but it is their duty as citizens to aid in clearing up the situation.

Mayor Welsh in his statement published yesterday declared that the charges against Kennedy by "any disgruntled ex-fireman or policeman" will be accepted. That seems to be a rather high-handed manner for the mayor to handle the situation. These men have as much right to prefer charges as any one else and it is the duty of the mayor to at least consider the charges whether they are made against Kennedy or anyone else. These men are not responsible to Kennedy. Because of their action in resigning and asking for the resignation of Kennedy they are responsible to the public and if they can prove their charges the public is ready to stand firmly back of them. In fact the sentiment has grown to such an extent since the resignation of the men and the preferment of charges that the whole matter will have to be aired.

It is true that the city officials have done good work as far as the laying of water mains and starting the Jackson street bridge are concerned. There is no doubt in the minds of the taxpayers but that a street paving program will be laid out which will meet with approval. Credit is given to the officials for the work that has been done. But that does not take care of the police situation.

The mayor says, "Everywhere I turn I am told that the things the other fellow says are lies." If that is the situation and there is no doubt that it is, it is the duty of the mayor to find out who is lying. The public demands that the police department be cleaned of politics. Mr. Kennedy as a member of the police commission should insist that the men who made the charges prove them. It is his duty as an official to exonerate himself.

The mayor thinks that some one is taking himself too seriously. The trouble is that city officials have not taken the situation seriously enough as is witnessed by the mayor and the president of the council leaving the city without an executive head, one day this week, although the police department to whom the citizens look for protection was disorganized.

The mayor does not see how the assault upon Mr. Capelle amounts to anything to do with the police situation. It does not have any bearing except that it shows that more protection is needed for the whole community. It also shows that a little activity on the part of the proper authorities will bring results.

The statement that slipshod methods in handling police business must go, gives encouragement. The police department should be run as any other important department of a city. A chief should be chosen who is capable of conducting the affairs of the force. He should be put into office with instructions to do those things that are necessary and then he should not be interfered with. If he does not handle his job to the satisfaction of the citizens he should be ousted and a man obtained who can handle the job.

Whatever You Want to Know

The Janesville Daily Gazette has established a free information bureau in Washington for the permanent use of its readers. This bureau will be glad to give you the latest and most reliable information on almost any question you choose to ask.

A large proportion of the daily inquiries are referred for answer to the departments of the Federal Government. This does not mean, however, that only questions related in some way to the work of the government will be answered. The Bureau is willing and able to answer questions on almost any subject.

Why in Washington?

The Bureau of Information was established in Washington rather than elsewhere because of the tremendous resources of information and service which have been accumulated there by the federal government—resources of which the average citizen has no adequate conception, and which he does not know how to reach.

The so-called executive department of our national government make up the most efficient and far-reaching machinery of service that the world has ever seen. There is in Washington an authority of the first rank on practically every question touching the well-being of humanity. There are magnificently equipped laboratories for the study of every problem of the nation's daily life.

The libraries of the national capital in themselves are a vast storehouse of useful information. The

SENTENCED TO WAUPUN BY JUDGE

HAROLD SMITH, ROCKFORD ADMITS ASSAULT ON F. A. CAPELE, JANESVILLE CITIZEN.

TAKEN BY CHIEF OF ROCKFORD

Given Three Years In Penitentiary In Municipal Court; Reward Goes to Barghen.

After a two day search extending over southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois, Harold G. Smith, a Rockford taxi cab driver, the man who threw the beer bottle through the windshield of the automobile driven by F. A. Capelle on the afternoon of Tuesday night, was apprehended by A. E. Barghen, chief of the Rockford police department. Smith was brought to this city on a 12 o'clock interurban car and after informing Judge

Chief Barghen announced this afternoon before departing for Rockford that he would offer $100 of the reward received by him to any person who will secure the arrest and conviction of anyone committing a similar offense in either Rock or Waupun.

H. L. Maxfield that he wished to waive all rights to an examination and pleading guilty, he was sentenced to serve three years in the penitentiary at Waupun.

Spurred on by the seriousness of the crime and also the reward offered through the efforts of the Gazette, police departments of every city and town in southern Wisconsin and northern Illinois have been hunting for the man for the past two days.

Citizens of both Illinois and Wisconsin were aroused when the affair was first given light Wednesday night through the columns of the Gazette. They pointed out the many things that might have happened had not the car been stopped by Mr. Capelle.

Smith, a married man with a family, was completely dazed when Judge Maxfield passed sentence upon him. He fought gallantly to keep back his tears, but the sorrow overcame him and shortly after he entered Sheriff Beley's car on his trip to the jail he broke completely down. With tears streaming down his cheeks he kept uttering that he didn't want to go to prison.

Chief Barghen of the Rockford department, on his arrival in Janesville with the prisoner early this morning, immediately had him taken to the city jail. A confession from the man, Chief Barghen said that credit for the arrest should go to Chief Gower and Sheriff Beley, who assisted in the search.

Gives Confession.

According to the confession obtained by Chief Barghen, Smith asserted that he left Rockford at 8 o'clock Tuesday night, accompanied by Paul Mason, who drove the machine. Arthur Vogel, Jack Anderson, and one other man unknown to him. On their arrival here they had several drinks and started for home about 11 o'clock.

Chief Barghen in discussing the capture of the man said he became interested in the case the minute he was told what happened. It was one of the most fiendish acts he had ever heard of and I made up my mind immediately that I would do all I possibly could to capture the man," he said.

Toured Saloons.

He said he came to Janesville Wednesday night and made a tour of the saloons in an effort to locate a clew of some kind. Failing in this he returned to Rockford and started questioning the different cab drivers.

At 10 o'clock last night he sent for Smith who came to the jail at once. He was kept in confinement until 5 o'clock this morning when he informed the police chief that he was ready to make a confession. He was the fifteenth man to be questioned by Chief Barghen.

Smith was a former resident of Waupun and went to Rockford and started operating a jitney bus when Camp Grant opened. His wife and children are away on a vacation.

Waives Examination.

When he was arraigned before Judge Maxfield, he waived all rights to an examination and insisted that he wished to plead guilty and get it over with. Judge Maxfield talked to the man for several minutes, informing him of the seriousness of the crime, but Smith continued to assert that he did not desire an examination.

The capture and conviction of Smith by Chief Barghen entitles the Rockford man to the reward. All persons who subscribed to the reward fund are asked to send their checks (Continued on Page 2)

Gower's Statement

"The mayor has made a statement regarding my refusing to hire men for the police force. These are the facts:

"I was called by the mayor and told him that I needed more men on the force to fill vacancies. He told me to go ahead and hire that he was too busy. That he would sign the proper blanks. He said I had charge of that end of the city affairs and that I was to get those men who were fit to hold the jobs. I hired two and Kennedy said that he would have to get rid of him. Kennedy said one of them worked against Welsh in election. He said that if Welsh and Dulin saw that police men were hired in uniform that they would cut me up. Kennedy told me that one of the men I had hired had been up to Oliver Grant's saloon and asked him about this policeman. I asked him if he had ever thrown him over the side and he said no. Grant told me that this policeman and Welsh had gotten into an argument over Welsh's being a champion of the laboring men.

Kennedy wanted to know if I had gotten rid of that policeman. He said that he (the policeman) had been out to South Janesville and gotten drunk and had thrown beer bottles. I showed him the star said he was a policeman from Janesville and that he wanted beer. I asked the policeman if he had been out to South Janesville and he said yes. I told him that the commissioners had demanded his resignation and he resigned.

In regard to cleaning up the conditions which existed a few weeks ago, when soldiers overrun the city and caused much disturbance, I cooperated to the fullest extent with the department of police. One of the men who went to me by Mr. Parker, Madison, asked me what I thought could be done to help the matter. I suggested that they send the men out to the station and let them wait until they had their money after they reached their home towns. I also suggested that the war department release criminal men long enough to visit Janesville. This was the action finally taken by the war department.

"City officials have interfered with the work of the department. I can cite several instances. One was of a man arrested for drunkenness. He was brought to the station on May 24, which was on Saturday. Next Sunday, a friend of his came and asked that I release him. I refused. Later Mayor Welsh himself came to me and requested that I release the man. He was a nice fellow. Naturally, I felt that the request was a demand and I released him. On May 1 Officer Morrissey told a certain resident of the city to let the man go. I refused. I dropped up a complaint. Mayor Welsh came to me and said that the man was a friend of his and that he wished him released. I refused. I have the records to prove what I say. I do not want the job of chief under present conditions but I do not intend to resign until some of the charges laid back and forth are cleared up."

WILSON'S SAILING MAY BE DELAYED BY FALL OF CABINET

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Paris, June 20.—President Wilson and his party are here this morning at 11 o'clock after a two day trip to Brussels and the war zone in Belgium. There was no formal reception and Mr. Wilson drove immediately to the Hotel de Ville. The president had a good night's rest and said that he was not tired. He expressed his enjoyment and interest in the trip.

At 11 o'clock the president went to the Hotel de Crillon and held a conference with the entire personnel of the American delegation including Colonel House.

The effect upon the president's plans of the cabinet's resignation in Germany and the further developments anticipated is uncertain. A German request for an extension of time to act on the treaty has been refused. It is understood that the president told the delegation today that he had fixed no date for his departure for home.

DULIN GIVES STAND ON POLICE CASE

PRESIDENT OF COUNCIL SAYS HE IS READY FOR INVESTIGATION.

KNEW NOTHING OF CHARGES MADE

Makes Statement Regarding Kennedy Situation On Commission.

Alderman John J. Dulin, president of the city council, in discussing the police situation today said he knew of no written complaints made against Mr. Kennedy or the other members of the fire and police commission by either the five policemen who have resigned or any other citizen.

Mr. Dulin emphatically stated that as a member of the council he was ready at any time to assist in an investigation in the police department or any other department under the city government providing specific charges were filed in writing by some citizen.

"As a member of the Fifth ward and president of the city council, I am ready at all times to look into any wrong doings by any person regardless of who he is if the charges are presented in writing," Mr. Dulin said. He announced that he was ready and eager to get to the bottom of the affair providing some written charges were filed, but he said he knew nothing of what Mr. Kennedy is charged with except what he read in the Gazette after the policemen visited Mr. Nowlan last Saturday morning.

Says He Serves the People.

Alderman Dulin said he was elected by the people of the Fifth ward not only to represent them but to represent the people of the city of Janesville and that it was his aim to serve as a good citizen and a good member of the city council in the best way possible for the people of Janesville.

Mr. Dulin issued the following statement concerning the affair which was made at Milwaukee, Wis., while en route to Manitowish to attend the Elk's convention and I readily agreed to return when I found that through the pressure of important business, we could not have the president of the council to act during the absence of Mayor Welsh and myself."

"Regarding the charges hurled at Mr. Kennedy and one other member of the fire and police commission I knew absolutely nothing of the affair until I arrived home from Chicago last Saturday night.

"I was then told that five policemen had resigned after giving Mr. Nowlan from 11 o'clock Saturday morning until 7 o'clock Saturday night to arrange matters for them.

Heard of Charges.

"I have never before heard of Mr. Kennedy visiting downtown saloons and belittling the police department and after making a thorough investigation of the affair I have failed to find and written complaints filed against Mr. Kennedy."

"I was elected to the office of alderman by the people of the Fifth ward and for many months when as long as I am sitting in the city council there will be no favoritism on my part. That is one of the first standards I made when first elected to the council and for many months before the commission form of government was adopted I fought hard against the star chamber sessions which were then held occasionally."

"I will not tolerate favoritism in the council as long as I am there as an alderman and any citizen who has infringed on his rights when acting as a citizen I will not hesitate to fight for others if written complaints are filed. I will be one of the first to demand an investigation."

CLAIMS JAPAN IS CONQUERING WEST

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Washington, June 20.—Cancellation of the so-called gentlemen's agreement with Japan and prohibition of all immigration from that country was urged before the house immigration committee today by Senator Elihu, democrat of California, who declared that Japanese rapidly were making a "silent" conquest of the western hemisphere. America's next war, he said would be "on the Pacific and not on the Atlantic."

Roger's Statement

Millon Rogers, ex-policeman who quit the force last Saturday after asking for the resignation of Commissioner Kennedy voluntarily came to the Gazette office this morning and made the following statement:

"The mayor has shed some light on the police situation in Janesville and it perhaps might be well to give to the public some information that he did not offer. I am comfortable in saying, however, that I was not in the saloon at the time of the incident. I was on several occasions that liquor was being sold to soldiers. I reported the matter to the chief of police. I was in uniform I was unable to get evidence that would convict. I knew that soldiers went in there and came out intoxicated. The chief of police denied Higgins but despite that recommendation a license was granted. Shortly after Higgins was caught by federal operatives and given a 30-day fine and ordered to get out the saloon business in Janesville."

"It is known in every police department in the country that men not in plain clothes cannot get results as a detective. A traffic officer has little opportunity to get such evidence as will convict where underhanded work is being carried on."

"The records at the city hall will show that Janesville police in the last year or more have arrested many men found guilty of bootlegging. Most of these have been convicted in the federal court at Madison. This would not indicate that the members of the police force are doing bad work. It is true that the problem was a difficult one at that time and considering the handicaps under which the policemen were working, it would appear that they were doing their best to keep the city clean."

"Here is what we policemen were up against: 'One Saturday night about 11 o'clock a crowd of men were trying to clean up the town. I arrested a man whose name I can give as he was staggering into a drug store on West Milwaukee street. He was unable to walk. I took him to the station and booked him and locked him up. The next day, a member of the police commission, who had been released and never again returned in court. This is one case. I could recount others."

"I said to Mayor Welsh last Saturday when he asked me to stay on the force that I had come to the department clean and I intended to quit clean and I would not stand for Jack Kennedy's slanderous remarks."

"The men who left the force have never before used the columns of the Gazette to give their opinions and I would not have done so if I had not received the mayor's calling me a 'disgruntled ex-policeman.' I have been a resident of Janesville for 15 years. I have never been in court except to appear as a witness. I believe my reputation and character will stand as close a scrutiny as the average man at least, even if I am poor."

BRAZIL PRESIDENT REACHES NEW YORK; IS GUEST OF NATION

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

New York, June 20.—Epitaclon Pessoa, president of Brazil, was welcomed to New York early today when the U. S. S. Imperator arrived in the harbor.

With members of his party, Dr. Pessoa was transferred to the Imperator last Monday from the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc, which became disabled near the Azores Islands.

At the Imperator docks a reception committee from Washington, headed by Breckenridge Long, third assistant secretary of state, waited to receive the nation's guest.

Returning to New York the visitors will be entertained here again before departing on a tour of the country.

GIVEN TWO YEARS FOR WIFE DESERTION

Charles Pothour was sentenced by Judge H. J. Field in the municipal court this morning to spend two years in the county jail, when he pleaded guilty to the charge of wife desertion. Pothour insisted that he did not like the idea of being under the commitment law. His wife testified that he had given her only $2 since the first of January. He said he was ready to give her money when she asked for it.

ANTI-TREATY CABINET COLLAPSES IS REPORT

SCHIEDEMANN-EBERT RULE RESIGNS? SPLIT OVER TERMS.

NOSKE TO BE NEW MINISTRY HEAD

National Assembly At Weimar Said To Have Accepted Pact.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

London, June 20.—The signing of the peace treaty by Germany, as the change dispatched from Copenhagen, says, is as certain as if the signatures had already been put to the document.

The German national assembly at Weimar has accepted the peace treaty, according to a dispatch from Paris.

If the national assembly at Weimar has taken such action it has passed upon the peace treaty a day earlier than the last direct advice from Germany had indicated.

Reports Premature.

Paris, June 20.—All reports concerning changes in the German cabinet are premature, says an official German message. The national assembly has prevented the national assembly from forming a majority coalition in favor of accepting the peace terms, the message adds.

The Germans have asked for a further extension of the time limit within which to act on the peace treaty.

Cabinet Resigns.

Paris, June 20.—The Scheidemann government in Germany has fallen. News of the event, reported during the morning, was confirmed through military channels. The cabinet resigned from both Weimar and Berlin.

The downfall of the Scheidemann government was made known to the American delegation to the peace conference. It is believed to assure the signing of the peace treaty by Germany, as Philipp Scheidemann, the premier, was understood to be the chief opponent to the acceptance of the peace terms.

Four Insisted on Signing.

Previous advice had indicated that four members of the Scheidemann cabinet were insisting upon the signing of the treaty, and it is presumed that this caused the fall of the ministry.

It is understood here that the fall of the Scheidemann government ends the fall of President Ebert. The national assembly probably will take measures to select a successor to Herr Ebert.

French official information on the German situation is to the same general effect as that received by the American delegation, namely that the Scheidemann-Ebert regime has collapsed. The French advised the help of the national assembly is favorable to the signing of the treaty.

AUSTRIAN NOTE PROTESTS BEING HEARD TO RESPONSIBILITIES

St. Germain, Thursday, June 13.—The Austrian counter proposals are being completed by the transmission of notes daily to the Council of Four. The Austrian delegation has sent a fourth note to the peace conference protesting against the German-Austrian republic. The note made the help of all the responsibilities of the Austro-Hungarian empire, of which it was but the smallest, poorest, most peaceful, and most liberal of states."

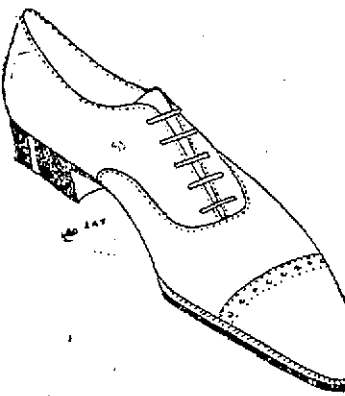

It points out that at the time war was declared in 1914, the foreign minister, his two principal collaborators, and almost all of Austria's ambassadors were Hungarian and maintains that the responsibility for the war is common to all the states forming the empire that has vanished."

The note expresses confidence that the "spirit of justice of the conference will not let the whole burden be thrown upon German-Austria."

250 HOUSES BUILT BY JANUARY IS HOUSING PROJECT

The Janesville Housing corporation will have 250 houses built and ready for occupancy by Jan. 1, 1920.
This is the extension of a $750,000 program announced today by Louis B.
Hill, newly appointed manager of the corporation, who just completed a government housing contract in Monroe, East Moline, and Rock Island, Ill.

In addition to finishing 250 homes,
Mr. Hill hopes to have 50 more four-room houses under construction. The work can be started early next spring before the ground has thawed.

From now on a new type of construction will be used, efforts being made to build a house as attractive as possible, yet at a moderate cost. The bungalow type is one of five, which have been adopted for future use. The cost of each house is figured to be from $2,500 to $3,500—payable on a monthly payment plan amounting to from $400 to $400 a year.

Arrangements are being made to build a better class of houses on the corporation's property in the Second ward on Blaine, Garfield and St.
Mary's avenues. These homes will range in price from $4,000 to $5,000.

Manager Hill today issued an appointment list for the houses and rent rooms to carpenters and other workmen, who will be employed on the project.

The lack of housing accommodation has materially handicapped the work of the corporation since its organization, said Mr. Hill today. "Of course we are going to employ all the local labor available, but we will also have to employ more attractive than the ones to be built along Racine and Fremont streets."

pointment list for the houses and

Higher Wages Voted
As another means of relieving the paramount difficulty of securing labor,
Mr. Hill stated it had been voted by the directors to increase the scale of wages to both carpenters and laborers.
Although excessive wages will be paid, it will be made attractive enough to bring in experienced men from other cities when the supply of local labor is exhausted.

The organization of the corporation affairs was completed at a meeting of the directors last night. A new purchasing, cost and accounting system will be installed at once so that a record may be kept of all expenditures on each house constructed.

It was unanimously voted last night
to proceed immediately with the building of 50 more houses on Racine and Fremont streets as the first step in the carrying out of the enlarged program. This makes a total of 75 houses to be built in that section at once.

"We have secured the wholehearted cooperation of all the plumbing,
heating, and excavation contractors,
and lumber dealers and everything is moving along rapidly and smoothly," said Mr. Hill. "We are now closing contracts for plumbing and heating
and for the cellar jobs."

program. This makes a total of 75
houses to be built in that section at once.

"We have secured the wholehearted
cooperation of all the plumbing,
heating, and excavation contractors,
and lumber dealers and everything is moving along rapidly and smoothly," said Mr. Hill. "We are now closing
contracts for plumbing and heating
and for the cellar jobs."

As another means of relieving the
paramount difficulty of securing labor,
Mr. Hill stated it had been voted by the directors to increase the scale of wages to both carpenters and laborers.
Although excessive wages will be paid, it will be made attractive
enough to bring in experienced men
from other cities when the supply of
local labor is exhausted.

The organization of the corporation affairs was completed at a meeting of the directors last night. A new purchasing, cost and accounting system will be installed at once so that
a record may be kept of all expenditures on each house constructed.

It was unanimously voted last night
to proceed immediately with the building of 50 more houses on Racine
and Fremont streets as the first step in the carrying out of the enlarged
program. This makes a total of 75
houses to be built in that section at once.

"We have secured the wholehearted
cooperation of all the plumbing,
heating, and excavation contractors,
and lumber dealers and everything is moving along rapidly and smoothly," said Mr. Hill. "We are now closing
contracts for plumbing and heating
and for the cellar jobs."

LEAGUE WOULD GIVE POPE POWER OVER STATE SAYS SHERMAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, June 20.—A warning that the league of nations may end the separation of the church and state and bring the civilized world under the domination of the papacy was given in the senate today by Senator Sherman, republican of Illinois, who declared the Roman Catholic league would be represented in the league assembly by 24 votes out of 45.

"From an early age," said the Illinois senator, "the occupants of the vatican have believed in the inherent right of papal authority to exercise civil government. It is with the utmost regret I fail to find recorded in the course of papal claims of later days any renunciation or disavowal of the doctrine. So far as a pope can disseminate the vatican still believes it ought, and would if the power permitted, assume to administer ecclesiastical and civil government as its joint, exclusive and paramount power."

TAX ON UNMARRIED
London.—A tax on bachelors and spinster to aid in raising the immense sum needed to meet the national expenditures in England is being considered by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. The spinsters are already voicing objections to the intention. Some of them declare that in many spheres of women's activities celibacy is one of the conditions of employment. In the civil service, for example, the spinsters point out that women must resign on the day that they become a bride. The bachelors are more reticent. After sacrificing four years of their lives in the service of the country they have to pay a special taxation, but they are inclined to accept the plan if the spinsters are taxed.

CIGARETTES ON THE SLY.
London.—British women who during the war have had the opportunity of studying their American sisters more closely are now asking why the American women smoke on the sly.
"In England and all over Europe we women smoke if we wish to," said a prominent society woman. "We are not less feminine than our American sisters and we do not make more mothers. If the American women smokers would just come out in the open there would be much less hysterical nonsense written against the innocent weed. Smoking seems to me so harmless and so trivial compared to all the big happenings in the world today."

ForeSight.
An irascible and not very judicial person had been listening to a lengthy argument on whether Ireland should or should not have home rule. Finally he could contain himself no longer and burst out: "I wish they'd give 'em home rule and then give me the motion picture rights."—Outlook.

PEACE TREATY IS MADE LONGER IN ANSWER TO HUNS

Paris, Thursday, June 19.—The alterations and amendments incorporated by the Council of Four in the revised treaty make it a longer and longer document than the draft originally submitted to the Germans and published in the United States. It now comprised 214 pages, five more than the original, and is a long list of amendments, many of which are of a purely technical nature. At various points the drafting committee sought to adhere as far as possible to the original numbering of the articles. The amendments make for insertions or omissions by combining or splitting articles.

As at first arranged, the new instrument still contains the original 14 points and 40 articles. The amendments make for insertions or omissions
by combining or splitting
articles.

Coal Guarantee Changed.
"Poland undertakes to permit for a period of 15 years the exportation to Germany of the products of mines in any part of upper Silesia transferred to Poland in accordance with the treaty, and to permit the Germans to purchase these products on the same terms as the Poles."

In the revised draft, "the principal aim and associated powers" undertake to establish Danzig as a free city.
This language, in which the responsibility of the five great powers to the creation of the city and state is definitely assumed, is substituted for the original phraseology declaring that "Danzig is established as a free city."

MAYOR WELSH BLOCKS TRUST MOVEMENT AT CONVENTION IN EAST

Mayor T. E. Welsh emphatically denied the story that he was confined to his home during his absence from the city and did not attend the convention of the National Clear Leaf Tobacco association at Lancaster, Penn. Mayor Welsh has recently received a copy of the United States Tobacco Journal which carries a complete report of the convention. Mr. Welsh said that he left this city accompanied by William McIntosh, Edgerton, and became a member of the association on his arrival at Lancaster.

To prove his statement Mr. Welsh has several copies of the journal carrying the doings of the convention. He points out the mention given him as being the man who blocked the movement of the big tobacco men of the country to pass a resolution favoring buying tobacco by auction.

The United States Tobacco Journal has the following to say of Mr. Welsh's address:

"Mr. Welsh aroused the applause of the convention by declaring that if the buyers would wait until the tobacco was in the bundle and in suitable state for the market before buying, and then make their prices in accord with value of the tobacco, most of the dissatisfaction would be obviated."

A CHANCE TO LIVE

THE STRANGE WORLD.

She closed her eyes and saw a vision of home—the untidy supper table with the lamp in the middle, and spots on the red, checkered cloth where little Jim had slopped his soup. The hot, cluttered room, the cold in the corner, and Janie snuffling with a cold as she bent over her geography lesson, the book propped on her plaid lap. The discarded slippers of tea and cabbage. Her mother, tiredly washing the dishes and Aunt Maggie in her faded checked apron tied on, drying them. In the surge of homesickness that engulfed her, how dear it all seemed! How far, far away.

Janie had been near enough the window to look straight up into the blue-black sky. This at least was the same. The same twinkling stars, only more of them. Janie kept her gaze on the twinkling stars, wondering if the stars at home were talking of her, thinking of Aunt Maggie staying there and sleeping in her cot, the nice room at the lodging house given up.

And at last she fell asleep. But it was never easy to fall asleep. The days, too, were lonesome and long and empty, and when Janie had been at the New farm a week it seemed a month to her.

In the tenement room at home Aunt Margaret was lying awake, thinking of Janie. It had been her habit, for many years, to think of Janie. There would be plenty of material to turn over in her mind. For many years her world had been a small but adequate room in a good house, her father's office, her mother's room, her own office desk, her work well performed and her wage her own.

Most gentle spinsters, she had arranged her life with nice orderliness. It should be said that she possessed the negative blessings of tranquility and seclusion. But now her path was roughened. Here no longer the quiet room at the corner of the day, the unbroken rest, the serene departure for office and work. Her world was disorganized. There wasn't a corner for privacy in the Ziegler flat. Not a closet or drawer she could call her own. Her fresh collars and cuffs were forever getting mixed with Janie's tumbled hair ribbons. Her brush and comb were usually to be found on the shelf over the kitchen stove, or on a chair beside a half-eaten apple, or fallen into the coal scuttle. Her sleep was broken nightly by blubbery from little Jim for a "drink of water."

There was a new suit for Aunt Maggie this year. She washed her old one in soap suds and pressed it carefully. She had her shoes re-soled, trimmed her last year's hat with a new ribbon and an adornment from the 10-cent store.

Janie noted these details when Aunt Maggie came out to spend Sunday with her after a week at the New farm.

"But, darlin'," protested Aunt Margaret, "where are the roses in your cheeks? And why aren't you looking like a lamp?"

Janie tried to laugh, but her aunt saw the quivering lip and chin.

"Oh, Aunt Mag—I just can't—can't stand it! I want to come home. I can't sleep nights thinking of you and the milk of the New farm. I want to stay here, not getting anywhere, not helping anybody. I won't be so useless. I'll be all right again, if I can just get home. Only—only—the look of terror came into Janie's eyes again, "not a factory—not a factory, Aunt Maggie. I couldn't!"

WHITE FROCK FOR SUMMER PARTIES

By ELOISE.

Every woman can wear white. To some women it is more becoming than others, to be sure. But there is something about the immaculate white frock that is so wondrously attractive, that the white outfit is a joy even when worn by the woman who might possibly appear more robust or more youthful or more distinguished or more something else in some other color scheme. Every woman ought to wear white some time—she will become amazingly fashionable.

It was not one of those fashions that was predicted very generally, but suddenly at the spring resorts where the women cared for the wounded soldiers until the ambulances could pick them up and the girls carried food and drink to the men stationed near the houses and rolled bandages for the nurses.

Janie thought she would have liked to think that she too might have lost

SISSY AND HIS NERVES

Without implying any stigma, for goodness knows few men can plead not guilty to silk socks or talcum powder, it may nevertheless be said—no, that it is too in-de-da; what I mean is that I may say that "nervousness" is one sign of effeminacy. Don't get mad if you are nervous. Stick around till I explain what I mean; it may help you.

Active effeminacy is a crime. Passive effeminacy is a misfortune. It is passive effeminacy to which I refer.

A man with a belt instead of suspenders to support his trousers, propped up by his trousers, need any support, if of active effeminacy in the first degree and ought to be sentenced to 10 years of red suspenders.

A man wearing a boiled shirt and a water's attire with silk stripes down the seams of his trousers for convenience's sake, is guilty of involuntary or passive effeminacy, and ought to be fined $10 for each offense.

The man or woman who leaves office, store or business where repression of impulses is the routine all day and every day, to seek recreation at a ball game, makes a mistake unless he or she takes part in the game itself.

The excitement and yelling of the spectators of the game will scarcely suffice as a vent for pent-up action impulses, nothing short of action will relieve the nervous tension which seeks relief. A little game of three-ball or four-ball would be good.

Decorum, dignity and exaggerated conceptions of these rigorous rules of repression account for much of the "nervousness" which mars so many lives. It seems that regard for the conventions rules human conduct with dores to defy convention is at once branded as a freak or a "nut."

A woman writes me that since adopting the practice of rolling six somersaults before breakfast and at bedtime every day she has reduced considerably in weight, discarded corsets, and gained "much better control of her curves and her nerves."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

QUESTIONS FOR CHILD.

Please tell me whether you consider it perfectly safe to administer an anesthetic to a child 6 months of age. Our baby has a prominent red blotch on her temple, and the doctors say it is a nevus and that it can be removed now without leaving a bad scar. (Mrs. A. B. C.)

ANSWER.—To keep the hips from getting too large, and develop the abdominal muscles, the little girl should be kept in a good position. I buy my little girl's new roller skates, as fast as they bust up the old ones.

Those Happy Days.

Why is it that the same we get from the nackers have lost the flavor that country hams and corned beefs have? Is it the grease that used to come from the dry or salted side meat? Cook it fatless, and you will find the flavor from fat all. Years ago we used to get Gristham hams in old Louisville—ham with the natural flavor. It is a pity. (C. R.)

ANSWER.—Yes, it is a great pity that things are never quite as good now as they used to be. I remember the old swimming hole the other day, and say, it was nothing but a dirt little depression in the mud—one could not understand how any boy would dive into such a hole.

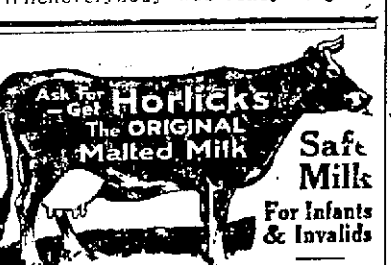

THE WISHING PLANE

Janie, too, heard stories of the war that night, but they were tales of how the women and even little girls like Janie had done their share. The women cared for the wounded soldiers until the ambulances could pick them up and the girls carried food and drink to the men stationed near the houses and rolled bandages for the nurses.

her mother the way Janie did, and then she realized what a lucky girl she had been to have lived far away from the war.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I happened to see the question asked you by what was supposed to have been "Unhappy Mother." She only told her side of the story, not mentioning how she came into the family and of all the slurs she cast upon her two daughters. She also treats the babies like a maniac. All the love and respect she ever had for her husband, she has lost. She is a two-inch line. She might have some place to go if she treated her relatives like human people. Speaking about the boarder and roomer, I think it is better to have a boarder than a roomer. The money she makes off his room and board is spent for candy and shows or club dues.

I think anyone who would have nerve enough to put a story of her kind in the paper doesn't need a lawyer; she needs a doctor.

ONE WHO KNOWS.

There the different points of view in the two stories of her husband gave us her point of view and now you have given yours.

In answering my mail I have to take into consideration the general appearance and wording of the letters. "Unhappy Mother" said kind things about her husband, and her chief complaint was the presence of his grown-up daughters in her home. I consider her complaint entirely justifiable.

It would take an exceptionally strong character to live with a husband whose evening capacity did not meet the requirements of his two antagonistic daughters, small babies, and a roomer and boarder. If the little mother is irritable and a poor manager, it is no wonder. The two daughters and the roomer and boarder leave the house since they are her chief complaint.

It seems to me unfair to bring up the matter of the way she spends the money she earns when her daughters contribute nothing of their earnings to the support of the home.

The step-daughters would be happy to have their mother's money, but if they would go out and live somewhere else.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I was married at 20. I would not have got married then if it had not been for my father's plan. He was very mean to me while I was at home, yet he did not like the fellow who was going with me.

But I married this fellow and he made a very good husband, and I am sure I have a very good home and couldn't wish for any better. My husband is true to me and says he loves me dearly.

Do you think I did right by marrying him? I have been married 12 years, but my father still thinks I did wrong.

In your case it turned out all right to marry against the wishes of your father. You certainly made no mistake.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will the use of an electric needle remove hair from the face so that it will never return. If a good doctor does the work is there any danger of leaving scars?

(2) Is $3 per hour for the work very reasonable?

(3) Have you ever personally known of anyone who has had work of this kind done?

(4) Yes, the electric needle will remove hair from the face so that it will not return.

(5) I would trust a good doctor with the work. There is little danger that scars will be left unless the face is picked after the work is done.

(6) Three dollars an hour is reasonable and a very good price.

(7) I have known people who have had the work done with perfectly satisfactory results.

WHY WE RESIST THE NEW.

What is the psychology of people who dislike improvements and either never try them or, having tried them, set their minds against being convinced that they are helpful.

I never can quite understand it though sometimes I find a trace of it in myself. For instance, latter every one else in the world has had a fountain pen for years. I have just been converted to one. Having been converted to one, I have been through college. I have known others who used fountain pens I preferred a pencil and as a consequence was often unable to read my own notes. All through my newspaper work, and the big correspondence which I have long handled I wasted time and effort in pen dipping. Why on earth did I do it?

We are apt to feel that is the old folks who are always against innovations. I think it is more a matter of temperament than age. I know a young woman who will never try anything new. She uses a hot water bottle to a great deal and suggested that she had had to her and showed her mine. "It seems all right," she said doubtfully, "but," triumphantly, "if it were really a good thing why wouldn't everybody who had electricity use it?"

"If They Are Good Why Doesn't Everyone Use Them?"

I might tell her that the answer to that is that there are so many people just like her in the world who cling with narrow minded distrust to the old and never give any new thing a fair trial. It is too old. I might ask her what would have happened to all the conveniences she enjoys in her house, electricity, hot water, heat, plumbing, etc. if others had said when their inventions were trying to get people to try them, "If they are any good why doesn't everybody use them?"

You Can Prove But Not Convince.

But I can't say it, for the slightest avail for me is one of those people whom argument only makes more set. You can prove a thing is true so far as anything they hear, but they still have contrary to them but they still have

Pieces of Eight

Being the authentic narrative of a treasure discovered in the Bahamas Islands in the Year 1600—now first given to the public.

By RICHARD LE GALLIENNE.

Copyright by Doubleday, Page & Co.

Of course I was inclined now to take the whole thing as an amusing impossibility; but presently, watching his face and the curious "seeing" expression of his eyes, and noting the exactitude of one or two pictures, I began to feel that, however much he might be inventing or elaborating, there was some substratum of truth in what he was telling me.

The first pictures that came to him were merely pictures, though astonishingly clear ones, of Webster's boat, the Flamingo, of the old dog Salior; but in all this he might have been visualizing from actual knowledge. Yet the details were curiously exact. Presently his gaze becoming more fixed:

"I see you anchored under a little settlement. You are rowing ashore. There are little pathways running up among the coral rocks, and a few white houses. Seems to be a forest; big trees—not like Nassau trees—and thick brush everywhere; all choked up so thick and dark, can't see but'n. Wait a minute, dough. Here seems to be old houses all sunk in and los', like old ruins. Can't see dem for de brush. And—Lord love you, sar, but I see a fright—I seem to see a big light coming up through de brush from far under de ground—just like you seek—deep, deep down. Didn't I tell you de Lord gave me eyes to see into de bowels of de earth—all it's de bowels of de earth for sure—all lit up and shining. Praise de Lord—it am de gold, for certain, all hidden away and shining dere under de ground—"

"Can't you see it closer, clearer?" I exclaimed involuntarily; "get some idea of the place it's in?" The old man gazed with a renewed intensity.

"No," he said presently, and his disappointed tone seemed to me the best evidence yet of his truth. "I only see a little golden mist deep, deep under de ground; now it is fading away. It's gone; I can only see de woods and

CHAPTER III.

In Which We Take Ship Once More.

The discovery which—through my friend the dealer in "marine curiosities"—I had made, or believed myself to have made, of the situation of Henry P. Tobias's second "pod" of treasure, fitted exactly with Charlie Webster's wishes for our trip, small stock as he affected to take in it at the moment.

"Short Shrift Island" lay a few miles to the northwest of Andros Island. Now Andros is a great haunt of wild duck, not to speak of that more august bird, the flamingo. Attraction number one for the good Charlie. Then, though it is some hundred and fifty miles long and some fifty miles broad at its broadest, it has never yet, it is said, been entirely explored.

Its center is still a mystery. The natives declare it is haunted, or at the natives inclined by some strange people no one has yet approached close enough to see. You can see their houses, they say, from a distance, but as you approach them, they disappear. Here, therefore, seemed an excellent place for Tobias to take cover in. Charlie's duck-shooting preserves, endless mari lakes, shoaling preserves, man-grove coves, lay on the fringe of this mysterious region. So Andros was plainly marked out for our destination.

Salior had watched his master getting his guns ready for some days, and, doubtless, memories stirred in him of Scotch moors they had shot over together. He raised his head to the night wind and sniffed impatiently, as though he already scented the wild duck on Andros Island. He was impatient, like the rest of us, because, though it was an hour past sailing-time, we had still to collect two of the crew. The two litters turned up at last, and, all preliminaries being at length disposed of, we threw off the mooring ropes and presently there was heard that most exhilarating of sounds to anyone who loves seafaring, the rippling of the ropes through the blocks as our mainsail began to rise up high against the moon which was beginning to look out over the huge block of the Colonial hotel, the sea wall of which ran along as far as our mooring. A few lights in its windows here and there broke the blank darkness of the facade, glimmering through the avenues of royal palms. I am thus explicit because of something that presently happened and which stayed the mainsail in its rippling ascent.

A tall figure was running along the sea wall from the direction of the hotel, calling out, a little breathlessly, in a rich voice as it ran:

"Wait a minute there, you fellows! Wait a minute!"

We were already moving, parallel with the wall, and at least twelve feet away from it, by the time the figure—that of a tall boy, cowboy-hatted and picturesquely outlined in the half light—stopped just ahead of us. He raised something that looked like a bag in his right hand, calling out "Catch" as he did so; and, a moment after, before a word could be spoken,

Before a Word Could Be Spoken, He Took a Flying Leap.

Alkali in Shampoos Bad For Washing Hair

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali, which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified, coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

FERRIBLE TESSIE

was uttering first one or the other and then the other, to keep his balance.

"Did it, by Jove!" he exclaimed in a beautiful English accent, and then started laughing as only absurd dandies youngsters can.

"Forgive me!" he said, as soon as he could get his breath, "but I had to do it. Heaven knows what the old man will say!"

"You're something of a long jump!" said Charlie.

"Oh! I have done my twenty-two, and an eighth on a broad running jump, but I had no chance for a run there," answered the lad, carelessly.

"But suppose you'd hit the water instead of the deck?"

"What of it? Can't one swim?"

"I guess you're all right, young man," said Charlie, softened; "but well, we're not taking passengers."

The words had a familiar sound. They were the very ones I had used to Tobias, as he stood with his hand on the gunwale of the Maggie Darling. I rapidly conveyed the coincidence—and the difference—to Charlie. It struck me as odd, I'll admit, that our second start, in this respect, should be so like the first. Meanwhile, the young man was answering:

"Don't call me a passenger; I'll help work the boat. I'll tell the truth, heard—never mind how—about your trip, and I'm just nutty about buried treasure. Come, be a sport. We can let the old gunner know, somehow, and it won't kill him to hear his hair for a day or two. He knows I can take care of myself."

"Well!" said Charlie, after thinking awhile in his slow way, "we'll think it over. You can come along till the morning. Then I can get a good look at you. If I don't like your looks we'll still be able to put you off at West End; and if I do—well—right-ho! Now, boys," he shouted, "go ahead with the sails!"

Once more there was that rippling of the ropes through the blocks, as our mainsail rose up high against the moon and filled proudly with the steady northeast breeze we had been waiting for.

So two or three hours went by, as we plucked on, to the seething sound of the water, and the singing of our sails, and all the various rumor of wind and sea. After all, it was a good music to sleep to, and for all my scorn of sleepless landmen, an irresistible drowsiness stretched me out on the roof of the little cabin, wonderfully rocked into forgetfulness.

As nap came to me and suddenly, my thigh came to me and I found me out through a door of blue and gold into a new-born world. There was the sun rising, the moon still on duty, and the morning star divinely naked in the heaven.

And there was Charlie, his broad face beaming with boyish happiness, and something like a fatherly gentleness in his eyes, as he watched his companion at the tiller, whom, for a half-asleep moment of waking, I couldn't account for; till our start all came back to me, when I realized that it was our young scapegrace of over-night. Charlie and he evidently were on the best of terms already.

Old Tom had been busy with breakfast and soon the smells of coffee and freshly made "johnny-cake" and frying bacon competed not unsuccessfully with the various fragrances of the morning.

Breakfast over, Charlie filled his pipe, assuming, as he did so, a judicial aspect. I filled mine and our young friend followed suit by taking a silver cigarette case from his pocket and striking a match on the leg of his khaki kackerbockers with a professional air.

"All set?" asked Charlie, and, after a slight pause, he went on:

"Now, young man, you can see we are nearing the end of the island. Another half-mile will bring us to West End. Whether we put you ashore there, or take you along, depends on your answers to my questions."

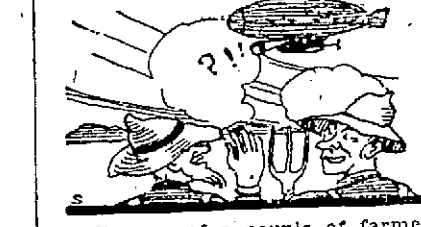

"Fire away," answered the youth, blowing a cloud of cigarette smoke in a delicate spiral up into the morning sky; "but I've really told you all I have to tell."

"No; you haven't told us how you came to know of our trip, what we were supposed to be after, and when we were starting."

Dinner Stories

Two army officers, while balloonists, lost trace of their whereabouts and, wishing to ascertain what part of the country they were passing over, descended, until they came within hail—ing distance of a couple of farmers. When nearly overhead one of the officers called out:

"Hie there, Johnny, can you tell us where we are?"

The rustic gazed up at them with much amusement. Thinking he had not heard, one of the officers shouted again, louder than before:

"Where are we?"

"Why you're in a balloon, ain't ye?" "What the officers said when they heard this would probably spoil the story."

We all have our blue days. In the treatment of them we can all, however, take a lesson from Mr. Jones. Read his letter:

"Your letter came. Glad you bought a pair of horses. Hilda is sick. She has diphtheria, and she will die, I think. Clara died this eve. She had it, too. We are quarantined. Five of Fisher's family have got it. My wife is sick. If this thing gets worse we may have to get a doctor. Them trees is budding good. Everything is O. K."

"Yes, sir," boasted the hotel proprietor, "that dog's the best rat-catchin' dog in the country. Five of Fisher's family have got it. My wife is sick. If this thing gets worse we may have to get a doctor. Them trees is budding good. Everything is O. K."

"Rat dog?" scoffed the traveling man. "Look at that, will you?"

THIN PEOPLE SHOULD TAKE PHOSPHATE

Nothing Like Plain Nitro-Phosphate to Put a Firm, Healthy Vigor and Increase Strength, Vigor and Nerve Force

Judging from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ed lines and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who are often due to their excessive thinness. Thinness and weakness are often due to a lack of phosphorus in the blood. Our bodies need more phosphorus than is contained in most foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by Smith Drug Co., in Janesville, Wis.

Most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, Nitro-phosphate should produce a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

It is a general improvement in the health, nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, should soon disappear, dull eyes ought to brighten, pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health. Miss Georgia Hamilton, who was once thin and frail, reporting her own experience, writes:

"Nitro-phosphate has brought about a most perfect transformation with me. I gained 15 pounds and never before felt so well."

CAUTION!—Although Nitro-phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, it should not, owing to its tendency to increase weight, be used by anyone who does not desire to put on flesh.

Counsel for the plaintiff objected precipitating a long argument. While they were talking Joe Labadie, the self-designated "gentle anarchist" of Detroit entered the room. He said that he was expected to testify as an expert on the subject of anarchy.

LABOR TO DISREGARD INJUNCTION DECREES

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Atlantic City, N. J., June 19.—The American Federation of Labor in a resolution adopted at its convention here today condemning what were declared to be "usurpations by the judiciary" of the government's legislative and executive powers, recommended that organized labor should disregard injunctive decrees of courts on the ground that such decrees violated rights guaranteed under the constitution. The resolution demanded that judges who exercised their authority should be promptly impeached. It asserted that "our courts and judges have been disregarding the rights of the people and exercising powers more tyrannical than any assumed by the most tyrannical despot ever known to history." The federation also adopted today a resolution favoring the restriction of immigration during the reconstruction period.

BURKE WOULD PUT SOLDIER BONUS BILL UP TO VOTE OF PEOPLE

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, June 20.—Senator Timothy Burke, Green Bay, the only member of the legislature to enlist in the Wisconsin state guard when the national guard was called into service in 1917, and the first to introduce a soldier recognition bill in the 1919 session, will present a new substitute amendment to the Huber $15,000,000 soldier bounty bill when it comes up for consideration next Tuesday. "No one wants to see the soldiers get all the credits and bonus on bounty by the state can give them any more than I do," said Senator Burke today. "but $15,000,000 is an enormous amount of money to be placed in the tax levy and although technically the legislature has the right to make any levy it sees fit, morally I think we have no right to vote such an amount without submitting it to the will of the people. Therefore I am going to offer an amendment to submit the proposition to a referendum vote of the people at the next election, which will be held next April, and if it is ratified the bill will go into effect and the $15,000,000 will be placed in the next tax levy." Senator Burke said it was true that it had been hoped that the bounty for the soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses could be provided at once, but that was out of the question, and under the Huger bill it could not be possible to be paid until next spring, so it made little difference if it was delayed a few months longer and permit the people of the state to vote on the proposition.

Golden Text: Now abideth faith, hope, love. I Corinthians XIII 13.

LOVE

"What is the chief good of life?" is the question handed down from one age to another from the beginning. It is a problem at which philosophers have puzzled themselves, and, as a result, have given us this immortal "Eternal Question." The answer to it is found in the love. Love is the chief good of life. It is the master in the use of all things, but nowhere does he use his art with such consummate skill as in this. His purpose is the differentiation of love. He makes it appear as it really is, a basic principle of character. He shows it to be other than and superior to the mere accidents of the flesh. He shows it to be the source of the quest of faith and benevolence, and the passive endurance of the pains of martyrdom.

Now he gives us a spectrum analysis of love. He presents colors that are the strongest as well as the greatest thing in the world. It endures and bears all the tests put upon it, even the severest. It is the best thing in the world, and as imperishable as it is good, it is affirmed to be a direct fruit of the Spirit of God. The seed of love is planted in the soul of man; it is quickened into life, nourished, protected, and brought to perfection by heavenly graces.

But in this divine process the happy subject is not from impulsive. He chooses and puts himself in the more excellent way which the apostle has so admirably shown. He covets earnestly the best gift, and when he has he exults in himself in it. He "works out" while God "works in."

Paul agrees with John, and both chord with Jesus in declaring love as the basis of religion. The apostle to the Gentiles declares love to be the fulfilling of the law. The beloved disciple says, "He that dwelleth in love, dwelleth in God." Finally the Master on his part affirms that everything may hang upon his golden, double-hooked commandment, "Love God," "Love neighbor."

The divinity of Christianity in this instance is illustrated by the ease with which it is epitomized. Other religions are inveterate in their tendency toward minutiae and their resistance to condensation. But Christianity, in that it is capable of expressing its compendious form. One word suffices. It is love.

Here is another historic instance of good coming out of evil. In the Corinthian church there was unseemly emulation. Some sought the honor attaching to eloquence; some to prophesy. It was to offset this tendency that Paul wrote this immortal chapter. In it he shows love to be the only way to true and lasting eminence. Right well does he fulfill his promise to show the Corinthians "a more excellent way."

Love is the fulfilling of the law; for love will not admit rivals to God's majesty; will not profane his holy name; will remember the day he was sanctified, will in point of fact, insistently, unconsciously, persistently obey the whole Decalogue. If a man violates God's law, such violation is in itself conclusive evidence that he does not love God. And not only God is the sin of sins. Absence of love as the dominant element of character and the mainspring of action is certainly a tendency to legalism and hypocrisy today as in the days of the scribes and Pharisees. One may easily lose himself in petty details, and amid the tangle of routine of charity forget the spirit of love. The eloquence behind which there is no love is always unconvincing.

This chapter is the true rule and gauge of the individual and collective life of the Church today. In the degree that it falls short it is worthless. Much of the current learning, benevolence, and sacrifice, thought to be Christian and worthy of admiration, if tried in this standard, proves base metal and no gold.

The Teacher's Lantern. This chapter is an interlude, a matchless prose poem, in one of the most logical compositions that ever was penned. It is a solitaire in a band of gold. Henry Drummond once said: "A man (meaning himself) once read this chapter once a week for three months, and it changed his whole life." Out of his heart's experience he contributed his priceless picture, "The Greatest Thing in the World."

To tell no doubt for the theme of his noblest writing here. "Where love is, there God is." This chapter was the golden fountain in which he dipped his pen. Knowledge shall vanish. The evanescent character of human estimates and statements is here affirmed. "Throw every textbook ten years old into the cellar; the significant order of the Librarian of the University of Edinburgh. In religion the mistake has been of attempting the permanent expression of religious belief by a code which shall be perpetually binding upon the consciences of men. The truth is, knowledge has an evolution of its own. In its successive stages, even the advanced, it is necessary to discard the old, to youth the adult—the knowledge of the one is foolishness to the other."

Some of our popular hymns are strangely in error in affirming the transcendence of faith and hope as compared with love—thus faith lost in sight, hope dying in truth, and love vanishing into sight. Faith is captivated in delight. Paul affirms the very opposite of this. He says that faith and hope abide as well as love. Faith will remain in heaven, the only difference being that there will be more and more to hope for. Paul expressly says these three abide.

The Unchange- able Christ

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Evening Classes,
Moody Bible Institute, Chicago

TEXT—Jesus Christ the same yesterday, and today, and forever.—Heb. 13: 8.

In the midst of all the vicissitudes and changes of life how blessed it is to know there is

One who never changes! Friends may fall us, loved ones may forsake us, health may leave us, money may take wings and fly away, times and circumstances may change, we may change, we may alter, but the Lord Jesus Christ is the unchanging and unchangeable One.

Our text tells us that what Jesus Christ was yesterday, he is today, and what he is today he will be forever; and what he will be forever he always has been. Let us take these three expressions concerning our Lord, which divide time up into the past, present and future, and permit them to direct our thought concerning ourselves and the Lord Jesus Christ.

First, there is the yesterday of our lives. That covers all the past up to the present moment. Looking back over it, it seems almost infinite in its reach, and yet we are told that the longest life is after all only as the span of a man's hand, as a vapor that passeth away, or as a tale that is told. But what a sweep the yesterday of our life seems to have, as we think of it. So much has happened, and so much in it has been imperfect and unsatisfactory, and let us speak it frankly, sinful. Now it is behind us; and, so far as we have any power over it, it is unalterable. We cannot change it if we would, neither can we undo it, nor wipe it out. What we have been, and what we have done in the yesterday of our lives is unalterable, and we are absolutely helpless, of ourselves, concerning it.

It is right here that the Lord Jesus Christ is ready to come in, if we will only let him, and save us from the sins of our yesterday. What we cannot do he is able and willing to do for us. These three expressions of time concerning Jesus Christ are the three tenets of salvation which he provides those who trust him. He saves them from their past sins. No matter how vile or sinful a life may have been, he has made ample provision by his death on the cross for the yesterday of that life that accepts him as Saviour. "In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins."

Second, there is the today of our lives. That is, the eternal now of life that we call the present. Life is not simply a past record that needs straightening out; it is a present thing that has to be lived, and every moment, as it comes, is the now of life. Even with the past cared for by Christ, we constantly face the present with its problems, difficulties and temptations. Having lived in the past, we know that unless there be given us some power in the present not found in ourselves we shall not be able to live so that when the present becomes the past it shall not be as the deplorable yesterday.

Thank God, the One who is willing and able to deliver us from the yesterday of our lives is just as willing and able to deliver us today. Now, this very moment, "He ever liveth to make intercession for us." The apostle puts it clearly when he says (Romans 5: 10): "For if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more being reconciled we shall be saved by his life." What life? Not his past life of thirty-three years on earth, but by his present life, communicated to those who become united to him by faith, so that he imparts to them his own life, and thus saves them from their sins. This is the present tense of salvation which Christ provides those who trust him.

Third, there is the eternity of our lives. That is the period when time for us is no more. Life on earth has been finished, and we have entered upon the ages of the ages. What then? Who will be our Saviour? Is there one able to save us in the future? Yes, thank God, the very One who, if we have made him by faith our Saviour, has saved us from our yesterday, and is saving us today, will be our Saviour forever. This is the future tense of salvation, for Christ is the unchangeable One who "is able to save to the uttermost all who come unto God by him." This blessed fact is plainly stated by the apostle: "Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him." We thank thee that thou art unchangeable, O Christ, the same yesterday, today and forever our Saviour.

When Jesus Christ says that he has overcome the world he means that his conquest is the pledge of ours. If he had failed, we could not have succeeded. It is because he has succeeded, that we cannot fail. These are Christian promises; these are the joys of the sanctuary.—Joseph Parker.

Minnesota Rate Increase is Upheld

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
St. Paul, Minn., June 20.—The state supreme court today held that the northwestern and Tri-State companies in Minnesota may immediately put their increased rate schedule into effect. The raises were authorized by Postmaster-General Burleson and the court ruled that the federal government had authority to order an increase.

NOW, WHAT D'YE THINK

Monroe, N. J.—Let Robert Kimble, aged 15, tell his own story: "I caught a baby trout some time ago and decided to train it. I put it in a spring house back of my home. The trout grew apace and soon weighed six pounds. I would hold a piece of meat and crumbs in my hand near the water and whistle. The trout would come to the top of the water, swim around and then jump into my hand and grab the food."

PEACE —and— WAR

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)

Growing belief that Germany would sign the peace treaty was strengthened today by news of the fall of the Scheidemann ministry in that country. The premier had been most outspoken in his opposition to the treaty. Paris advices indicate the expectation there that the cabinet formed by his successor will be one that will accept the allied terms. It is reported that Gustav Noske, the minister of defense, will head the new ministry.

From the current German dispatches it would appear that the majority socialist, the independent socialist and the centrists are in favor of signing the treaty, with the German national and democratic parties opposed to accepting the terms. As the first three organizations form an overwhelming majority in the national assembly, it appears that the new cabinet will in effect receive a mandate to meet the demands of the allies.

A situation has arisen in Italy that threatens to complicate the work of the peace conference. Premier Orlando last night submitted the resignation of his cabinet from an adverse vote in the chamber of deputies on a motion by the premier for a secret session at which the foreign policy of the kingdom would be discussed. The King Victor Emmanuel has yet, however, and it may be that Signor Orlando will remain in office carrying on the work of the peace conference in which he has been one of the most prominent figures.

Should Premier Orlando quit office there apparently would be a considerable delay in the settlement of the Adriatic problem. In his address before the chamber prior to the vote, the premier said that the situation at present was grave and that Italy was facing the most acute phase of the immense crisis arising from the war.

Meanwhile, notwithstanding the signs that Germany will accept the peace treaty, the allied forces are prepared for her refusal of it. Marshal Foch, it is reported, will be in command on a front extending from the Rhine to the Danube should a forward movement be necessary. Swiss advices say Italian forces have begun to occupy Vorarlberg, in the extreme western part of Austria, in anticipation of a refusal on the part of either Germany or Austria to meet the allied terms. Switzerland, in the meantime, is preparing to maintain her neutrality, having called out troops to guard her northern frontier.

STILL SELLS STAMPS FOR INTOXICANTS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Washington, June 20.—Although forecasting "no reason of doubt that war-time prohibition will become effective July 1," the internal revenue bureau, in accordance with an opinion of the attorney general, will continue the sale of tax stamps for intoxicating beverages after that date. Commissioner Rogers said, however, the sale would be with the distinct understanding that the manufacture or sale of prohibited intoxicating liquor was in no way authorized.

Miss Genevieve Clendenin and Miss Marion Tiffany Show How New York's Girls Are Working to Provide Comfort For Soldier and Sailor Visitors.

They are waitresses in the busiest restaurant in New York. They can make beds like professional house-maids, and if "a stitch in time saves nine," they have saved several hundred thousand of them. All of which is a rather good record for two New York girls who never were waitresses before, knew little about making a bed and whose sewing was done for them.

This miracle of industry has been wrought by the needs of the Bryant Park, New York—sister of the Eagle Hut which is the Y. M. C. A.'s big Eagle Hut in "Y" center of activities in London. Members of the New York staff, Miss Genevieve Clendenin and Miss Marion Tiffany are doing their part taking care of the 155,000 boys who are served in a month at this one "Y" hut.

There is seldom an hour of the day when a crowd of soldiers and sailors are not eating or writing letters, cashing checks and buying money orders, getting free or cut-rate theater tickets or having their clothes mended. Sleeping accommodations controlled by the "Y" take care of 4,500 men a month, another 1,000 see New York from "Y" buses, and a similar number in automobiles lent by owners.

Twenty-five thousand letters and cards are written in Eagle Hut every week, and a three cent stamp is sold every half-minute. In one month the "Y" cashed checks and exchanged local money for foreign to a total of $58,710 of which $10,417 was turned back at the counter where post office money orders are sold. Seven thousand cut-rate theater tickets were purchased, and 2,705 boys got free tickets which had been contributed through the "Y" by their friends.

And the dinners—fried chicken, hamburger steak, biscuit, pot pie, pork chops, roast beef, all for a quarter portion except the fish cakes, which are cheaper. Everything else is a nickel—soup, ice cream, cider, cake with marshmallow filling and the like. If there is any surplus at the end of a month after satisfying soldier and sailor appetites at these prices, it goes into a few extras for the following month.

Just because Miss Clendenin and Miss Tiffany happen to live in the Fifth avenue section of New York has been no bar to their work. They are both graduates of the Y. M. C. A. and have been working for the Y. M. C. A. since they were in high school. They are both graduates of the Y. M. C. A. and have been working for the Y. M. C. A. since they were in high school.

Prisco are making themselves at home.

Ford is enjoying a season of rest and recreation at the Bidwell house, Palmyra. R. W. It being the first break-off from professional duties he has taken in 20 years. His Sharpe of Ottawa, Kan., are making a brief visit in this city. Mr. Sharpe is editor and proprietor of the "Republican," a very prosperous and enterprising paper, one of the best in that part of the country. Mrs. Sharpe is a daughter of J. B. Moon of this city. Today closed the summer term of Mrs. L. Peterson's school for small children, and was celebrated by a picnic held on the comfortable grounds surrounding the residence. All those who love music will have a rich treat next Monday night at Court Street Methodist church. At which time and place Philip Phillips, who is known from one end of the world to another as a singer and writer of sacred songs, will give a concert.

PERSHING THANKS K. C.'S FOR WAR WORK

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Paris, June 20.—Acknowledgement of the service rendered to the soldiers by the Knights of Columbus has been sent by General Pershing to the headquarters of the organization here. Writing to the Overseas Commissioners Lawrence O. Murray and Edward L. Hoarn, General Pershing stated: "I wish to express through you to the Knights of Columbus my appreciation and that of the officers and men under my command for the valuable services rendered by your organization to the American expeditionary force."

"The active work of your organization in France began early in 1915, was well under way by the spring of that year, and has been increasing in scope ever since. Before the cessation of hostilities its workers were attached to many of the combat divisions and recreation huts had been opened in the principal American concentration centers. Numerous commanding officers have commended the devotion to duty of your personnel, and have testified to their popularity and helpfulness among the troops whom they served."

"During the armistice, it has been particularly active in the promotion of athletics, a most valuable factor for health and contentment. It has also contributed to the success of the army entertainment program by generous appropriations for musical instruments and equipment of soldier shows; has increased its general recreational activities, helping materially to maintain the morale of the army during the inevitable period of waiting to go home."

MANAGER OF YANKEES
SEES BASEBALL DOOM

New York—Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees, believes that the next few years will be the greatest in baseball. He is particularly pleased with the outlook in the minor leagues, in which young players are being developed. "The big minors specialized for years in taking the players who have gone back," said Huggins, "and this kept many a youngster from getting an opening. The world war and the consequent collapse of the minors brought about new conditions. Salaries have fallen to such an extent in the minors that they no longer apply to many of the players who were accustomed to draw down big money. Now it is the turn of the ambitious young fellows who are willing to start in at smaller salaries. These are going to grow, finally reaching the stage that they held from 1905 to 1913."

CANADA'S PRO-BETTING.

Ottawa, Ont.—Official announcement has been made by Sir Thomas White that the Dominion government does not intend to repeal at present the order prohibiting for the period of the war and for six months thereafter betting, pool selling and bookmaking upon race courses. The government plans before the next session of parliament to investigate with a view to enacting such legislation as may be deemed advisable in view of complaints which had been made by several communities.

FASTER THAN COBB.

New York.—Baseball sharps in New York believe that Ross Young, the young Texan outfielder of the Giants, is a faster base runner than Ty Cobb. Young is speedy on the paths, keeping his position in faultless style, making hard catches look easy and is in a fair way, if he keeps up his present hitting, of being the National league champion batsman this year.
